OF ADMISSION.

For admission to the Freshman Class, the candidates are examined in the whole of Virgil, Cicero's Select Orations, and Sallust; Jacob's Greek Reader, and the four Gospels of the Greek Testament; Adam's Latin Grammar, Gould's edition, and the Gloucester Greek Grammar, Cambridge edition, both including Prosody, (Buttmann's Greek Grammar is also received); writing Latin; Lacroix's Arithmetic, Cambridge edition; Euler's Algebra, printed also at Cambridge; "Elements of Geography, Ancient and Modern, by J. E. Worcester."

It is very desirable and important that the candidates should be well and correctly prepared, particularly in grammatical and elementary knowledge. If they have more time than is requisite for this purpose, Instructors are desired and advised, for obvious reasons, not to anticipate the College studies, but rather to extend their studies to other authors.

The stated time of examination for the Freshman Class is the first Thursday of the summer vacation. Those who are necessarily prevented from offering themselves at that time, may be examined on the Friday of Commencement week. If any one be admitted after the second week of the First Term, he will be considered as admitted to advanced standing.

Persons may be admitted to advanced standing, or from any other College, at any part of the College course previous to the Second Term of the Senior year. In order to such admission, the candidate, in addition to the requisites for the Freshman Class, must appear, on examination, to be well versed in the studies of the class which he proposes to enter. He will always be examined in the whole course, including the preparatory studies. He must also pay into the Treasury a sum equal to the charge made for instruction upon those of the standing to which he is admitted. Any Scholar, however, who has a regular dismission from another College, may be admitted to the standing, for which, on examination, he is found qualified, without any pecuniary consideration.

The University is open to persons who are not candidates for a degree, and who desire to study in particular departments only: Provided that such persons have a good moral character; that their previous acquisitions be such as are now demanded of Students before admission, so far as the studies proposed to be pursued shall require; and that they be subject to all the laws of the University, in regard to diligence, good conduct, and College discipline.

Graduates of any public College or University, also persons sufficiently acquainted with the Greek and Latin languages, and otherwise qualified to the satisfaction of the Faculty, are admissible as Theological Students. Application to be made to the Dean of the Faculty of Theology.

Medical Students, who would attend the course of Medical Lectures at the Massachusetts College of Medicine in Boston, enter their names with the Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, on or before the third Tuesday in October.

Every person, before admission to any of the Classes or Schools of the University, must exhibit proper testimonials of a good moral character.

COMMENCEMENT is on the last Wednesday in August. The academical year is divided into three TERMS and three VACATIONS: — the first Vacation is of two weeks, from the Wednesday preceding the 25th day of December; the second is of two weeks, from the first Wednesday in April; and the third, of six weeks, next preceding Commencement.

The Public Exhibitions are on the third Tuesday of October, and on the second Tuesday and the last Monday of the Third Term.

The Dudleian Lecture is on the second Wednesday in May.

Military exercises are allowed on Tuesday and Thursday, from 12 to 1 o'clock, or after evening Commons; with music not oftener than every other time, and liberty of a parade on the afternoons of Exhibition days.

LAW SCHOOL.

The design of this Institution is to afford a complete course of legal education for gentlemen destined for the bar in the different parts of the United States, and also elementary instruction for gentlemen not destined for the bar, but yet desirous of qualifying themselves for public life or for commercial business. The various branches of public and constitutional law, the common law, and admiralty, maritime, and equity law, are taught, with occasional illustrations of foreign law.

The School is under the immediate superintendence and direction of Mr. Ashmun, Royall Professor of Law in the University, who will occasionally deliver lectures and make examinations of the students. Mr. Justice Story, Dane Professor of Law in the University, resides in Cambridge. and during the intervals of his judicial duties will assist in the superintendence of the School. He will deliver lectures upon all the branches of law belonging to his Professorship, viz. upon the Law of Nature and Nations, and upon Maritime, Commercial, Equity, and Constitutional Law.

There will be three terms and three vacations in the year, corresponding with those of the undergraduates.

Students may generally be accommodated with rooms in the college buildings upon the same terms as undergraduates, and may, if they choose, board in commons as resident graduates, at the rate of $1.75 per week. The fees for instruction are $100 per annum, for which the students have the use of lecture rooms, the Library, and the privilege of attending all the public lectures of the University gratis; with the opportunity of instruction in the modern languages on the payment of $10 per annum for each language studied. Gentlemen, who are graduates of a College, will complete their education in three years; those who are not graduates, in five years. Instruction, however, will be given for stated periods, as may suit the convenience of students, but without subdividing any of the terms.

No previous examination is necessary for admission; but every student will be expected to bring from his parents or friends a certificate of his good character, and some general statement of his previous studies. Bonds will be required for the payment of all dues to the College.

Constant residence in Cambridge will not be deemed indispensable; it will be sufficient if attendance is given at the regular hours prescribed for lectures, examinations, and study.

The students have the use of an extensive Law Library, and access to the general Library of the University, containing more than thirty thousand volumes. They are furnished with all the books used as class books, except where they prefer to supply themselves, as they frequently will, for the purpose of making references and notes, with a view to future study and practice.

In addition to the course of reading the students occasionally write dissertations upon subjects connected with it; and every week a moot court is held, at which, in rotation, they argue questions of law. They have also a debating club for miscellaneous discussions and improvement in extempore elocution.

MEDICAL SCHOOL.STATUTES RELATING TO THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF MEDICINE.

I. — The Faculty of Medicine of this University shall consist of the President, and of the Professors and Lecturers authorized to give instruction to the medical students. This faculty shall always have a Dean elected by themselves, for such periods as they may think proper, and may also adopt rules for their own government, provided that the same do not, in any respect, contravene the laws of the University.

II. — Students of medicine, designing to attend the medical lectures, or any of them, shall be matriculated in this University, by entering their names with the Dean of the faculty of medicine, to be enrolled by him; and by signing an obligation to submit to the laws of the University, and to the direction of the faculty of medicine.

III. — There shall be four meetings holden in this University annually, by the faculty of medicine, for the purpose of examining candidates for the degree of doctor of medicine. Two of these meetings shall be for private examinations, and shall be holden in the Massachusetts Medical College in Boston; and two of them shall be for public examinations, and shall be holden in some one of the halls of the University in Cambridge. Three members of the faculty at least shall be present at every examination. The first meeting for private examinations in every year shall be holden on the day next succeeding that on which the winter course of medical lectures shall terminate, at ten o'clock A. M. The second meeting for private examinations shall be holden on the Monday next but one preceding the day of the annual Commencement in the University, at ten o'clock A. M. In extraordinary cases the faculty may hold meetings for private examinations at other periods. The meetings for public examinations shall be holden on such days as the President may appoint, provided that the same shall take place within one week after the termination of the stated annual meetings for private examinations respectively. All the meetings described in this statute may be continued by adjournment. The meetings for the public examinations shall be open to the Governors and Instructors of the University, to the fellows of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and to such other respectable persons as may choose to attend them.

IV. — Candidates for the degree of Doctor of Medicine must comply with the following conditions, before being admitted to private examinations, viz.

1. They shall have attended two courses of the lectures delivered at the Massachusetts Medical College by each of the Professors.

2. They shall have employed three years in their professional studies, under the direction of a regular practitioner of medicine.

3. Those, who have not received an University education, shall satisfy the faculty of medicine in respect to their knowledge of the Latin language and experimental philosophy.

4. Every candidate, intending to offer himself for private examination shall, four weeks previously, give notice of his intention to the Dean of the faculty, and shall at the same time deliver, or transmit, to the Dean a dissertation, written by himself, on some subject connected with medicine. Every dissertation shall be submitted, by the Dean, to the examination of the faculty in the mode which they shall point out.

V. — At the meetings for private examinations, the faculty shall examine all those candidates, who shall present themselves after having complied with the conditions enumerated in the fourth of these statutes, upon the following branches of medical science, viz. Anatomy, Physiology, Chemistry, Materia Medica, Pharmacy, Midwifery, Surgery, and the Theory and Practice of Medicine. At these meetings every candidate shall be examined separately, and the decision of the faculty in respect to each, shall be made and declared to him immediately after the examination has closed. The decision in respect to each candidate shall be determined by the votes of the major part of the members of the faculty, present at the examination of the same; and this decision, if favorable to the candidate, shall be recorded by the Dean. In the decisions to be made at these meetings, regard shall be had to the dissertations, as well as to the examinations.

VI. — Those candidates, who have been approved according to the fifth of these statutes, may present themselves at the public examination, next ensuing after such approbation. Each candidate, so presenting himself, shall then read and defend, or be examined upon the dissertation, which he shall have previously submitted to the faculty. At the close of each public examination, the faculty shall decide, in respect to each candidate, whether he shall be recommended as worthy of the degree for which he has applied. The decision of the faculty in respect to all those candidates, whom they do so recommend, shall be recorded by the Dean, and shall by him be certified to the President, to be laid before the Senatus Academicus. The candidates will learn the decisions in respect to them by application to the President.

VII. — Those candidates, who have received from the Senatus Academicus the final approbation, will be directed by the President to appear at Cambridge, at such time as he may appoint, and he will then admit each of them, with the accustomed solemnities, to the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

At a meeting of the Faculty of Medicine of Harvard University, August 15, 1821, Voted, That hereafter, the dissertations of candidates for examination in winter, shall be delivered on or before the first day of December; and that the dissertations of candidates for examination in summer, shall be delivered on or before the first day of July; and that no excuse will be received for a delay in the delivery of dissertations after the days appointed in the fourth section of the fourth statute.

NOTE. — The lectures for medical students on the various branches mentioned in the statutes, are delivered at the Massachusetts Medical College in Boston, and commence annually on the third Wednesday in October. They continue four months. During the lectures, the students may find in the city various opportunities for practical instruction.

The Hollis Professor of Natural Philosophy will admit medical students to attend the lectures on natural and experimental philosophy. The lectures are delivered in the Philosophy Hall at Cambridge, four days in the week, during the first and third terms. In order to their admission such students must produce, to the Professor above mentioned, a certificate of their matriculation from the Dean of the faculty of medicine, and another certificate from the Steward of the University that they have paid him seven dollars for the Treasurer. Other persons may be admitted to the same lectures, with the approbation of the President, and on producing a certificate from the Steward that they have paid ten dollars. Application to be made in writing to the President.

The fee for the degree of Doctor of Medicine is to be paid to the College Treasurer. The fee is twenty dollars for a person who has not taken a degree of Bachelor of Arts at any College or University; fifteen dollars for one who has taken the degree of Bachelor; and ten dollars for one who has taken the degree of Master of Arts.

The Anatomical department has a museum esteemed the richest in the country in preparations both healthful and morbid, and is of great value in teaching and illustrating the principles of surgical anatomy. The means of teaching and studying practical anatomy are abundant, and every facility is offered to enable the student to prosecute this most important portion of his study.

The Midwifery department contains models from Florence, to illustrate the practice, and to teach the anatomy of this branch of medicine. Besides these it is well supplied with plates and preparations, to aid its study.

The Chemical department is well furnished with the apparatus required for illustration in the lectures and experimental research, and great additions are continually making. Much of the apparatus is constructed on a large scale, and the alterations which have been made in the laboratory allow the most important processes to be conducted within the view of the pupils.

The chemical lectures to the undergraduates commence at Cambridge immediately on the close of the Medical course, and in addition to the apparatus belonging to the University, much of that belonging to the Professor is removed from Boston.

These lectures are followed by those on Mineralogy and Geology, which are given in the cabinet of Mineralogy during the summer. The collection of minerals, as regards completeness and utility, is equal to any in the country. The suite of ores is peculiarly rich, as is likewise the volcanic department; and the gems and precious stones are numerous. The specimens are arranged in one spacious hall 45½ feet in length, 36 feet wide, and 17 high; they are placed in glazed cabinets against the walls of the room to the height of ten feet. A large proportion of the most beautiful specimens are arranged upon eight glazed tables, and the residue in nearly 200 drawers.

Several cases are filled with complete suites of models of crystals, and others with recent and fossil shells. The collection of organic remains has been lately enriched by a complete British series; and the French fossils are numerous.

The collection is accessible to students desirous of prosecuting the science at other times than during the lectures.

BOYLSTON MEDICAL LIBRARY.

REGULATIONS. — Art. 6. The persons entitled to the loan of books, shall be all such members of the Massachusetts Medical Society as reside in the towns of Cambridge, Boston, Roxbury, and Charlestown, or within ten miles of the College.

Art. 7. The Students in Medicine shall have access to the Library during the continuance of the course of medical lectures annually delivered, for the purpose of taking out one volume only at a time.

Art. 10. No fee or emolument whatever, beside the stated provision, which may be made by the Corporation, shall accrue to the Librarian, or any other person, from the individuals to whom books shall be loaned, or from the visitors of the Museum.

Art. 13. From the time of the annual visitation to the commencement of the medical lectures, all books shall be retained in the Library for the special use of the medical institution; and no books shall be loaned to any person, excepting to such students as are attendant on those lectures, until the close of the course.

LIBRARY.

The University Library is divided into three departments, viz. Law, Medical, and Public.

The Law Library is in the Second College House. It is designed for the officers and students of the Law Institution. Number of books, 3000. It contains some of the most valuable works in English Law, together with a variety of others by writers in France, Germany, and America.

The Medical Library is in the Medical College in Boston. It is placed there for the convenience of students attending the medical lectures. The number of books is about ten or twelve hundred. It contains all the elementary works which are the most important, and the most used by students. Besides these, it has the writings of the early Greek and Latin medical Fathers, and the works of the later medical classics; and with the latter it contains numerous valuable modern works.

The Public, or College Library is in Harvard Hall. This is much larger than either of the others, and is rapidly increasing. It is for the common use of the whole University, in this respect differing from the other branches of the University Library. The total number of books is more than 33,000. Of these, 2500 are allowed for duplicates, and 1000 for the Boylston Medical Library, which is immediately connected with it.
